

A valuable New Zealand resource!

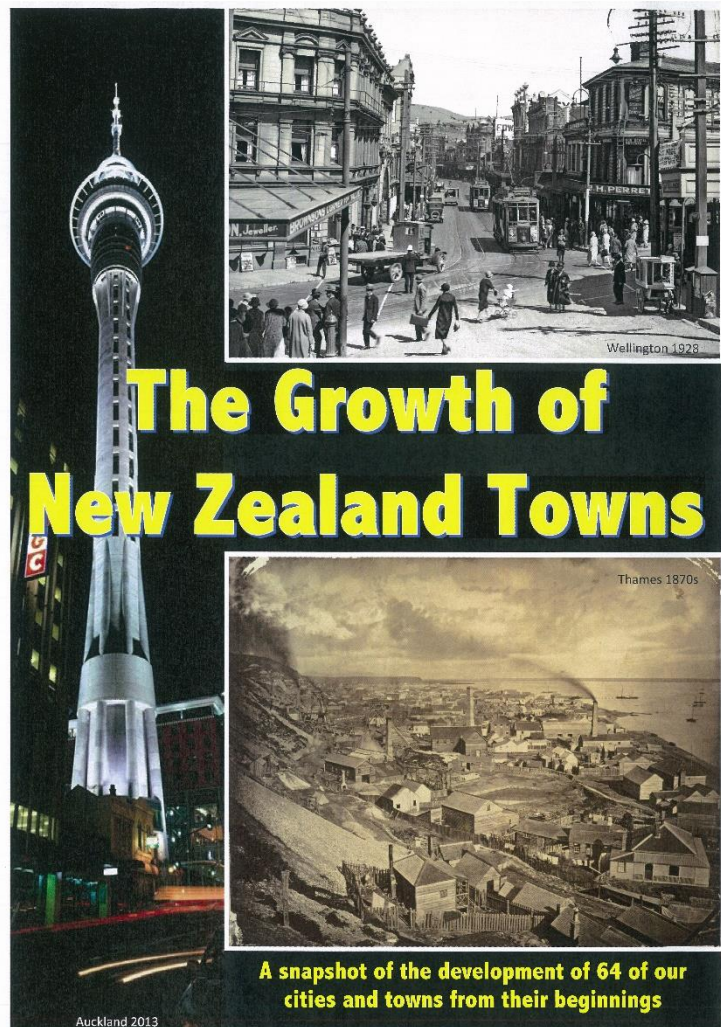

A highly visualised and easily readable account of the development of the nation's cities and towns.

Part 1 – A history of their growth or decline, and the factors behind this, with a glimpse to the future.

Part 2 – Individual articles on 50 of our cities and towns, by local contributors, and richly illustrated with photographs from the past and present.

Part 3 – Supporting research data for those interested.

A4 size, 192 pages, gloss, colour.

"This is a treasure trove of information on the growth of New Zealand towns, graphically presented in interesting ways. This is a very useful reference for anyone interested in the changing profiles of our towns since early European settlement."
Linda Bryder, Professor of History, University of Auckland

"I am very impressed with the data that has been extracted and analysed. It produces a fascinating insight into what has happened in New Zealand's society and demography over time."
Etienne Nel, Professor of Geography, University of Otago

"This book highlights the ability of our communities to innovate and adapt as economic and social change has eroded the basis of their long term prosperity. We are a resilient nation and this is nowhere better illustrated than in the stories contained in this timely and thoroughly interesting publication."
Dave Cull, President, Local Government New Zealand
